PREFACE

THE thanks of the compiler are due to all the members of the Chapman Family who have responded so promptly and generously to her requests for help in gathering needed information for this work. It is hoped that this compilation may be found complete and interesting enough to recompense them for their pains, and also that it may help in some small measure to promote good feeling and better acquaintance amongst us.

Several have rendered such valuable aid that they require especial mention :

Miss Lillie Howe Chapman, of Cottage City, Mass., and Miss Florence Mabel Chapman, of Waterbury, Conn., have given valuable information regarding the descendants in New England of Samuel and Mary Carleton Chapman.

Mr. Henry Chapman, of Brookfield, Mo., and Mr. Timothy Putnam Chapman, of Chariton County, Mo., have rendered great assistance in compiling information regarding those of the family who live in the West.

Dr. Edward Dwight Chapman, of Chicago, Ill., has taken much time and pains to gather the data of the descendants of his grandfather, Mr. Samuel Chapman, of Greenwich, Mass.

Mrs. Juliette Bishop Sumner, of Springfield, Mass., has furnished particularly full and complete notes of the descendants of Col. Eliakim Chapman, which could not have been easily procured from any other source.

And generally, all the Chapmans who have been communicated with, have taken so kindly an interest in the matter, that the compiler has been greatly encouraged and sustained in her difficult task.

Should errors be found in this work, the compiler will be pleased to receive corrections, and will keep a careful record of all further information given her, against the time when some member of the family may have time and means to prepare a more complete and ambitious work on the subject.

INTRODUCTION

THE name Chapman is of Saxon origin. The Saxon word Ceapman means, a chapman, a marketman, a monger, a merchant, a cheapener. The different branches of the Chapman family in America are without doubt all of English origin, although genealogical research thus far has been principally confined to America, and little is known of the history of the family in England.

It is known, however, that members of the family became distinguished in England at an early date. They have been granted letters of nobility in England, Ireland and Scotland, and have become distinguished in letters, as well as in military, civil and ecclesiastical pursuits, with, apparently, a strong predilection for the latter. In 1854 it was estimated that there were at least twenty clergymen of the Established Church in England, named Chapman.

The Royal Book of Crests of Great Britain and Ireland, Dominion of Canada, India and Australasia (London, James Macveigh, 1863), shows the crests of ten different branches of the Chapman family. Fairbank's Crests of the Families of Great Britain and Ireland, etc. (Edinburgh, Thomas C.

Jack, 1887), gives the same crests and adds one more, making eleven in all. The coats of arms of the different branches of the family in Cambridgeshire, Yorkshire and London are in the main alike: "A crescent, the crest being a dexter arm embowed, habited in mail, holding in the hand a broken tilting spear enfiled with a chaplet of laurel, with the motto 'Crescit sub pondere virtus,' " (virtue grows under the imposed weight, or virtue increases under affliction). Interesting information concerning the English branches of the family can be found in Burke's Peerage, supplementary volume, 1848, page 65, and in Burke's Peerage, 1885, page 257.

There are known to have been sixteen pioneers in the settlement of New England, etc., bearing the name of Chapman, none of whom are known to have been related. They are as follows:

1. Edward Chapman, a miller, who came to Boston, Mass., from the north-east of Hull, England, about the year 1644. In the same year he had a grant of land at Ipswich, Mass., and resided there. A record of his descendants has been compiled by Rev. Jacob Chapman and Dr. W. B. Lapham (Edward Chapman, of Ipswich, Mass., in 1644, and some of his Descendants, Portland; printed by B. Thurston & Co., 1878). It is an interesting pamphlet of thirty-four pages.

2. William Chapman, who first appears on the records of New London, Conn., in 1657.

In the book of town grants appears the following: "William Chapman hath given him thirty ackers of upland

"bounded towards the south with Mr. Douglas his land, and
 "towards the east with the small brook that leads to Jordan
 "River, and towards the north with Arkaubukie Meadow,
 "and towards the west with a ledge of rocks and a tree
 "marked on four sides." This grant was made in 1663.

At a town meeting held August 25, 1691, it was
 "voated that whereas William Chapman had formerly al"lowed him by the town three pounds for his sexton's place
 "by the yeare, they now add forty shillings more and order
 "him five pounds per yeare for sweeping the meeting house
 "and galleries and ringing the bell."

He died December 18, 1699, and left an estate valued at twenty-eight pounds and sixpence. He had seven children.

3. John Chapman was admitted a resident, or townsman, at Boston, in 1634, and was at New Haven in 1639.

4. Jacob Chapman, March 28, 1642.

5. Richard Chapman appears in Braintree, Mass., in 1647. He was at Boston in 1652. His wife's name was Mary. He was killed by Indians. He had daughters, Susan, Hope and Mary.

6. Deacon Samuel Chapman was a proprietor in Westfield, Mass., in 1660.

7. Isaac Chapman is in the list of settlers of Barn-stable, Mass., between 1660 and 1670.

8. Symon Chapman was made free in Boston, in 1675.

9. Among the passengers "embarked in the Primrose
 "for Virginia, July 27, 1635, Captain Douglas, per certificate
 "under ye minister's hand of Gravesend, being examined

"by him, touching their conformity to the Church discipline of England," occurs the name of Henry Chapman, aged nineteen.

10. In a similar list, among the passengers of the Elizabeth, August 1, 1635, appears the name of Richard Chapman, aged nineteen.

11. Ralph Chapman came from Southworth, England, in the ship Elizabeth, in 1635, aged twenty. He was at Duxbury, Mass., in 1640, where his marriage with Lydia Wills is recorded. At Marshfield, Mass., in 1643, his name is found in the list of those able to bear arms. He was a ship carpenter, and his descendents are numerous. He may have been a brother to the Richard Chapman (No. 10, above,) who came in the same ship, in the same year.

12. Thomas Chapman, younger brother of Benjamin Chapman, who was granted an estate at Killua, County Westmeath, Ireland, by Cromwell. He was a passenger for Virginia, on the Globe of London, August 7, 1635, aged twenty-six years.

13. Among the passengers for Virginia, in July, 1635, in the ship Alice, is Walter Chapman, aged forty-four.

14. A Robert Chapman was living at Oyster River, in Dover, New Hampshire, in 1663.

15. Robert Chapman came from Hull, England, to Boston, in the year 1635. On November 3, 1635, he sailed from Boston, in company with Lyon Gardiner, for Say-Brook, Conn., as one of a company of twenty men who were sent over by Sir Richard Saltonstall to take possession of a large tract of land near the mouth of the Connecticut river, under the patent of Lord Say and Seal. He is supposed to have been, at this time, about eighteen years of age.

He helped to subdue the Indians, taking an active part, in company with his particular friend, Col. George Fenwick, in the various Indian warfares incident to the early settlement of Connecticut, and especially in the Pequot War. He was a very large landholder in the towns of Say-Brook and East Haddam. He also owned a large tract of land in Hebron, and left at his decease, to each of his three sons, fifteen hundred acres in that town, which he had received as one of the legatees of the Indian Chief Uncas and his sons. He settled himself on a tract of land in Oyster River, about two miles west of Say-Brook fort, and this homestead is still in the possession of his descendants.

He was a man of influence in the town of Say-Brook. He was for many years town clerk, and clerk of the Oyster River quarter, for many years commissioner for Say-Brook, deputy to the General Court forty-three times, and assistant nine times.

The colony records show that each of his three sons were representatives in the legislature; the eldest, twenty-two sessions; the second, eighteen sessions; and the youngest twenty-four sessions. He died October 13, 1687. His descendants are very numerous in the United States. One of these was Rev. Frederick W. Chapman, of South Glastenbury, Conn., who compiled and published the work entitled "The Chapman Family: or the Descendants of Robert

"Chapman, one of the First Settlers of Say-Brook, Conn.,
 "with Genealogical Notes of William Chapman, who settled
 "in New London, Conn.; Edward Chapman, who settled at "Windsor, Conn.; John Chapman, of Stonington, Conn.;
 "and Rev. Benjamin Chapman, of Southington, Conn."
 (Hartford: printed by Case, Tiffany and Company, 1854).
 It is to this excellent work that the compiler is indebted for the notes of the descendants of our ancestor, Edward Chapman, of Windsor, Conn., for nearly the whole of the first five generations.

16. Edward Chapman, of Windsor, Conn., our ancestor, who first appears on the Windsor records, in the year 1660. It is not known that he had any kindred in America, saving his own descendants, and of them this book is a record. The number of descendants concerning whom information is given herein, is as follows :

Descendants, born Chapman.....	234
Descendants, with surname other than Chap- man.....	135
Persons who have married with descendants ..	126
Total .....	495

The early generations of our family bore an honorable part in the struggles of the Colonies. They were hardy men, of firm will and little speech. Edward Chapman himself was among those who laid down their lives in these early wars. He was wounded while fighting with Indians, in 1675, and died soon after. His grandson, Capt.
 Samuel Chapman, died while fighting in the French War.

His great-grandson, Col. Samuel Chapman, commanded a company in the French War, and was also an officer in the Revolutionary War. The nephew of Col. Samuel Chapman, General Elijah Chapman, was also an officer in the Revolutionary War.

They also received distinction in the way of civil offices. In the fourth generation we find Elijah Chapman, who was deacon of the church in Tolland, Conn., and represented the town in the legislatures of 1765, 1776, 1781 and 1782; Col. Samuel Chapman, who represented the town of Tolland in the legislature continuously from 1755 to 1790, with the exception of three years, when absent in the army; he was elected to the general assembly forty-three times, and attended at fifteen special meetings of that body. In the fifth generation, is Gen. Elijah Chapman, who was sheriff of Tolland County from 1786 to 1809, and represented the town in the legislatures of 1794 and 1797; and Ashbel Chapman, who represented the town of Tolland in the legislatures of 1808, 1811, 1812 and 1820.

The Chapman family were descendants of Simon Chapman, who was one of the original settlers of the town. He lived in Philadelphia and sent his sons of land in Holland; but his son Samuel, who lived in Louisville, little about the year 1723 on a tract of about fifty acres lying south of a town called Shampsin bend; he was grandson of Mr. Edward Chapman, who came from England, settled in Lincoln, and lost his life at the storming of the fortress Fort in December 1675. He was the only justice of the peace in Holland for nine years & a selectman for eleven years. He had three sons and five daughters all of whom married and settled in Holland. James, the eldest son of Colonel Samuel Chapman, son of same, married Sarah White, of Bolton, September 20, 1750. He commanded a company in the French War, in 1758, and was also an officer in the Revolutionary War. He represented the town of Tolland in the legislature, from 1755 to 1790, with the exception of three years, when absent in the army. He died in March, 1805. Mrs. Chapman died April 10, 1800.

The following very interesting account of Col. Samuel Chapman, is taken from Waldo's History of Tolland, Conn., pages 62-8 :

" Samuel, eldest son of Capt. Samuel Chapman, was an eminent citizen, and a very remarkable man. He was a Captain in the French War and Colonel of the Twenty-second Regiment of Connecticut Militia during the entire War of the Revolution. He was at New York with his regiment in 1776. He was in several other tours of duty.

" His personal courage and astonishing hardihood were proverbial among his soldiers. His frame and nerves seemed as if made of iron (for example, he never wore mittens in the coldest weather), and such was his mental temperament that disasters which would discourage even superior minds only aroused his undaunted spirit to more fearless action. Few men could be found so unflinching in danger and his firmness and energy never failed under any circumstances.

" The almost unexampled number of times he was elected a member of the General Assembly, exhibits the regard in which he was held by his townsmen. His was the master spirit that brought the citizens of Tolland into unanimous and energetic action in the Revolutionary contest.

" Col. Chapman was one of the wealthiest men of Tolland and carried on a large business, besides farming. He would give employment to a poor man who wanted work, regardless of advantage to himself, and even embarrassed his estate by becoming responsible for the debts of the unfortunate.

" He was elected to the General Assembly forty-three times, and attended at fifteen special meetings of that body. He was a member of the Convention in January, 1788, and voted for the adoption of the present constitution of the United States. He was two years selectman and twenty-six years (from 1772 to 1797) a justice of the peace.

" In person, Col. Chapman was rather under the middle stature, with blue eyes, and his voice was remarkable for its loudness and energy. He was what is called a great reader, was rather taciturn and of studious habits. He never laughed and a smile seldom lighted up his austere countenance. He was born in Windsor, a few years previous to his father's settlement in Tolland, and occupied during his life the house built by his father."

Colonel Eliakim Chapman, son of same, was twice married. His first wife was Roxalana Willes, whom he married September 24, 1785, and who died January 27, 1798. His second wife was Nancy Willes, whom he married March 19, 1799. He died April 16, 1838.

A story is told of Col. Eliakim Chapman, illustrating his great strength. He was engaged, with some neighbors, in working the roads. One of the party who was hauling earth in a cart drawn by two yoke of oxen, was afraid of overworking his oxen, and therefore hauled small loads. Col. Eliakim, to tease him, declared that he could take the load on a wheelbarrow. He then got under the cart, balanced it upon his shoulder and lifted it in the air with the load of earth upon it.

Thomas White Chapman, son of same, married Damaris H. Chapman, December 17, 1840. He lived in Cottage City, Mass., and died November 1, 1890.

Mrs Damaris H. Chapman is a descendant of Robert Chapman, who came to Boston, from Hull, England, in August, 1635, and in the month of November in the same year, to Say-Brook, Connecticut. See Mr. Frederick W. Chapman's work on "The Chapman Family," pages 37 and 185. He wrongly conjectures that Thomas W. Chapman was a descendant of William Chapman, who settled at New London, Conn. It is not known that Robert Chapman, of Say-Brook, and Edward Chapman, of Windsor, were related.
